Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

We see the nation gradually hardening in its relations with the aggressors in the world's wars. Secretary Cordell Hull, our Minister of Foreign Relations, to give him a more descriptive title, recedes from the foreground into the background. His policy of appeasement, as the President says, "has worked" for two years, yet the aggressor appetite is not dulled. The man now quoted in the State Department is younger, colder and more vigorous. He is Under Secretary of State, Sumner Welles.

It was Welles who delivered the rebuke to the Japanese ambassador, following the attempted bombing of the American gunboat Tatuila. It was he who read a lecture to the government in Vichy for its surrender to Japanese of Indo China. We do not know how far the views of Hull coincided with those of Welles, but we suspect that the President has done what he has often done in times past, he has turned from one officer of the government to another, when he finds obstruction to the course he has determined upon.

For sometime observers of the scene in Washington have suspected that Hul's philosophy no longer meets the practical conditions which the United States faces. A splendid, scholarly old man he is, but his diplomacy that would maintain friendly relations with the world's prize cut-throats, no longer serves, if it ever did. He came too late in the strife torn world to make his reciprocal trade treaties for the undoing of the wicked Smoot-Hawley tariff act, effective. The bitter fruit of that tariff inquity was already ripening. Mussolini was already ranting and mouthing on the world stage. Hitler appeared almost coincidentally with Hull. Stalin had long established his despotism. The Japanese had already moved into Manchuria. Hull was too late.

Welles, the realist, is rising on the horizon of world affairs. Under his guidance, your Uncle Samuel strips for action, if action there must be. Vichy and Tokyo are warned. The army and navy move forces into the Philippines. Young men in the marines yearn for a chance to slap down the little brown Japs. Feverishly the work of fortifying Guam, Wake and other U. S. islands in the Pacific proceeds.

Would you call Japan impudent or courageous? It's navy, ranking third in size among world navies, probably has the poorest guns and gunners in the world. It is well known that the Japanese have failed to reline their heavy guns since their bombardment of Shanghai's approaches and forts. Accuracy is impossible unless the rifling of heavy ordnance is renewed after a certain number of rounds have been fired. With few exceptions their submarines are death traps. And their armies, what of them? Scattered through China, along the border between Siberia and Manchuria, and now garrisoning the coastal ports in Indo China, dependent on two thousand miles of sea for supplies or re-inforcements, is it an army that any first class nation need fear? On the whole we believe the Japanese are merely impudent.

To citizens who are at all aware of the strength of the United States Navy, Japanese impudence, as expressed in its yammering press, in the utterances of its so-called statesmen, and in the puerility of the statements issued by the military camarilla, amounts to a kind of pitiable nonsense. Small boys boasting of manly prowess, knightly deeds. One is aghast at the tremendous ignorance revealed. It remains to be seen whether Japanese leaders are as ignorant of U. S. Naval strength as they seem, or whether they must learn

Silk Stocking "Run"—

NEVADA CITY WOMEN BUY BEFORE SUPPLY RUNS OUT

Nevada City stores are having a "run" on their stocking counters, just the same as is happening elsewhere in the country following the order of the OPM completely stopping the processing of raw silk, effective at midnight Saturday.

Feminine buyers, alarmed by stories of a deep cut in production and acute shortage of raw silk have been charging the stores carrying hosiery, seeking to lay in supplies to tide them over the emergency period.

Probably none have given the thought to the supposed fact silk stockings, like perishable foodstuffs, spoil in time.

Sidney Hillman, associate director general of office of production management, warned that restrictions on imports probably would lead to a complete ban on civilian use of silk to conserve supplies for military use.

Meanwhile Nevada City stores report they still have a pretty good supply of silk stockings on hand but it is little likely they will be able to obtain more.

When silk stockings run out maybe milady will follow the English practice of painting their limbs the various silk stocking shades.

Nylon on the market just a year and a half, is quate a favorite with women but the production is so limited and the price quite a bit higher than silk stockings that enough will probably never be manufactured to cover all the feminine legs in the country.

N. C. Elks Win 12 to 8 Over Laundry 10

Last Friday night the Nevada City Elks took one more step toward the Nevada County championship in defeating the Grass Valley Laundry boys by the score of 12 to 8. Although outhit by the opponent the Elks managed to make good their chances, at the expense of the Laundry errors.

The Elks fielded their weakest team of the year, in using Childers behind the plate and bringing Keene from his outfield post to play third base. Melvin Ronnigen filled in the team by playing right field, and turned a good performance, for his first game in two years.

Bill Cornelius, supplied the batting punch for the locals in collecting 3 hits for 5 trips to the plate, with a triple, and 2 singles. He also made several good catches in left field which saved the team a few runs.

The locals scored 4 times in the last inning to win running away. This Wednesday the Elks play the Morning Union. This will prove to be one of the best games of the season. The Morning Union is the only team able to dump the Elks this year.

LEAVE FOR VACATION IN YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK

Mrs. Otto Schiffner and Robert Schiffner left here yesterday for a vacation trip to Yosemite National Park and other points in Central and Southern California.

GRASS VALLEY TAKES LEAD IN VALLEY LEAGUE

Defeating Marysville 5 to 0, the Grass Valley Miners yesterday went into undisputed lead in the Sacramento Valley League.

The victory was pitched by Norman Stadler, who allowed only five hits. Stadler aided in winning his own game with some timely blows.

After the game, the two teams united in battling a picked squad from the Chico and Oroville teams. The Chico and Oroville squad won from the Grass Valley and Marysville team by a 7 to 3 score. It was the annual All-star game of the valley league.

Local Angler Trains Dog To Retrieve Fish For Him

Bill Wright has trained his dog, Pepper, to retrieve fish, a la duck style.

It appears Bill has caught so many fish he has become tired of lifting them from the water.

So Pepper, Bill's constant companion on fishing journeys, has been learned to plunge into the water after each battle of angler versus fish is over and bring the fish to his master on the shore, or in the boat, as the case may be.

Last week, Wright, fishing at Bullard's Bar hooked a several pound bass. Pepper had no difficulty in dragging the fish to Wright on the shore.

Slot Machines Burn In Gold Nugget Inn Warehouse Conflagation

CIGARET BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN CAUSE OF BLAZE WHICH DOES NEARLY $5,000 DAMAGE

Approximately 60 slot machines, punchboards, novelties and other gambling paraphernalia were destroyed in a fire which burned the warehouse and woodshed in the rear of the Gold Nugget Inn yesterday.

P. P. Awalt, proprietor of the Gold Nugget, said the fire started in the woodshed. Fanned by a wind, the flames quickly spread to the warehouse adjoining and for a time threatened the $15,000 Gold Nugget structure.

A 1940 Studebaker was burned along with the slot machines and other equipment.

Although all the firemen who answered the call to the blaze reported slot machines were burned, Awalt said there were none in the building.

The State Division of Forestry fire fighters were the first to arrive on the scene. The state fire fighters were later helped by firemen and the equipment from both the Nevada City and the Grass Valley volunteer fire departments. The firemen succeeded in saving the stucco resort from the flames.

Awalt estimated the damage at $1500. The State Division of Forestry headquarters, who investigated the fire, said the damage was more near $5000.

It is believed the fire was caused by a discarded cigaret, which was thrown near the woodshed. Awalt was on the premises at the outbreak of the fire.

The proprietor lost many valuable tools in the warehouse blaze also.

NEW TRIAL IS NECESSARY IN A. WATT CASE

A retrial of the contest of the will of the late Mrs. Alison Watt will be necessary as the result of a disagreement of the jury in the first trial, which came to an end last Thursday.

The date for the new trial will be set on September 5th. Superior Judge Warren Steel of Yuba County, who heard the case, discharged the jury Thursday night at 10 p. m. when it became apparent the jurors were hopelessly deadlocked. The jurors deliberated ten hours.

The trial lasted nearly two weeks. A similar length of time would be required in the new trial.

The will contest suit was filed by Robert Finnie, Sr. of Sacramento, a brother of Mrs. Watt.

Proposed Army Cantonment Will Include Land In Spenceville Area of This County

The proposed army cantonment in the foothill area of Nevada and Yuba County embraces four to five miles in Nevada County. The area in this county is in the Spenceville district.

At a special session called to pave the way for the army cantonment the Yuba county board of supervisors, voted unanimously to abandon nearly 50 miles of roads in the district.

W. T. Ellis, board chairman, said the session had been called at request of United States army authorities, and that the urgency indicated plans to start actual construction of the cantonment as soon as congress authorizes funds. Marysville was the only California city on a recent list of 23 designated throughout the nation for additional cantonments.

To Control Business

The supervisors at the next regular meeting also will consider ordinances to control new business enterprises and prevent undesirable developments likely to result from the actual establishment of the camp.

Army engineers earlier had surveyed two large Yuba county areas, including the Erle and Linda sector now indicated as the cantonment site. It has been estimated that the camp will be constructed to accommodate 35,000 enlisted men and officers, and that as many as 5000 civilians will be engaged to execute a rush construction job.

Site Protested

A delegation of Erle district ranchers appeared at the board meeting to voice protests regarding the site and to seek information. Ellis advised the group that government representatives will appraise the lands and improvements and decide upon severance damage, severance from communities and other considerations.

The board chairman also pointed out that purchase of the 46,900 acre camp site would remove property from the assessment roll having a land value of $494,730 and improvements worth $65,665. These valuations for tax purposes are supposedly one half the actual value, which would make the land and improvements within the camp area to b worth $1,120,790. Transfer of the area to government ownership would take $18,000 annually from the county's tax income, but the loss would be offset, Ellis asserted, by much new taxable property the cantonment will bring into the community.

Cantonment Boundaries

Boundaries of the cantonment area, as indicated after conferences of chamber of commerce committeemen with army authorities, appear as follows: From a point on Hammonton road two miles east of Brophy school, easterly along south side of that road for two miles, thence north to the Yuba river at a point north of Hammonton; easterly along the river to Parks Bar bridge, thence along the south side of Tahoe Pacific highway past Timbuctoo and Smartville to the Nevada County line; thence southerly along the county line nine miles to a point east of Ostrom station; westerly five miles toward Ostrom, then north to point of beginning.

Army Air Depot Recruiting Board In G.V. Tomorrow

The Sacramento Army Air Depot today started a civilian recruiting campaign throughout Northern California in an effort to obtain some of the 8,000 to 10,000 workers ultimately needed at the rapidly expanding airplane repair and supply center.

The recruiting board will spend tomorrow at the Department of Employment headquarters on Auburn Street in Grass Valley for the purpose of interviewing applicants for civil service positions.

Air depot officials disclosed that during the last month 670 new men were hired. It was announced more than 600 men must be hired during this month and the hiring should accelerate to at least 800 new men during September or a total of 4,500 men by October 1st.

This expansion, it was pointed out is only the fore runner of the growth expectel. With an additional $3,500,000 approved for expansion purposes, the repair and supply capacity of the depot will be more than doubled. This will cause an expansion in the number of civilian employees.

Yellow Star Thistle Gains Foothold In Nevada County

Yellow Star Thistle, one of the worst enemies of farmers, has gained a foothold in Nevada County.

County Agricultural Commissioner L. G. Lageson reports 80 acres of the weed has been found to exist in this county and has began to battle to exterminate the thistle.

The thistle is most prevalent in the Rough and Ready and Spenceville districts. Lageson, with a newly purchased spray outfit, is personally fighting for the extermination of the weed.

"Before this weed became widespread like the Klamath Weed", Lageson said, "we must wipe it out entirely. Each year for the next two or three years continual spraying projects will have to be conducted by this office until the Yellow Star Thsitle has been eradicated from the county."

It is believed the thistle was brought to the county in hay. Lageson said the thistle destroys land values. He asks the cooperation of the residents of the county in his drive to exterminate the thistle. Anyone seeing the weed is urged to report the location to the agricultural commissioner's office in the courthouse.

Judge Steel Takes New Trial Request In Mines Case Under Advisement

Superior Judge Warren Steel has under advisement a motion for a new trial made by Cooley Butler to the suit tried here recently in which a decision was rendered in favor of the Empire-Star Mines, Ltd., over Butler's Golden Center and Scotia Mines.

Following a several weeks trial, Judge Steel rendered a decision granting the Empire-Star Mines a permanent injunction, restraining the Golden Center from draining its workings into the Empire Star's Pennsylvania Mine.

Attorney Robert Searls, chief of counsel for the Empire-Star Company, argued— in opposition to a new trial but stated his client was willing for a modification of the court's decree.

The argument in favor of the new trial was presented by Pierce Butler, a nephew of Cooley Butler and a son of the late Supreme Court Justice Butler.

INSANE IN STATE HOSPITALS NOW TOTAL 23,345

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Dr. Aaron J. Rosanoff, state director of institutions, said today the only explanation that may be offered for an increase in admissions to state mental hospitals during June is that public's attitude toward state institutions has changed.

He attributed this to the introduction of insulin-shock and conclusive therapies and other prevention and treatment measures.

"Instead of a reluctance in the matter of restoring to hospitalization of mental patients, we notice often an eagerness to get patients into our hospitals—many of them not by the court commitment, but upon their vountary application."

The total resident population of the state's seven mental hospitals on June 30 was 23,345 compared with 22,952 a year earlier. A total of 7,400 patients were admitted during the past fiscal year, compared with 7,044 during the previous similar period.

"V" FOR VICTORY

Millions of "V" signs chalked up on walls and doors over all German occupied territory are symbolizing the will of subjugated nations for liberty; heralding a new resistance to Naziism; signalizing that those unhappy nations of a smoldering continent may rise in arms against the oppression of their conqueror.

The tremendous psychological effect of the "V" campaign in France is already seen in improved morale, according to dispatches from abroad. And it is worrying Hitler, who in his "war of nerves" and his "fear offensives" has used the principle of mass psychology to conquer and to destroy.

We have no murderous war to fight here today; but we have serious internal problems that might be solved by a "V" campaign of our own.

What might be the effect on morale, on domestic peace and fair play, if every time employes and employers got together and settled their problems amicably, with no loss or damage to payrolls, jobs, property or the public, the sign of victory over dissention, bigotry and belligerence were displayed.

Public approval would create the will to display more "V's" for victory over disunity, and the more "V's" the more public approval and the faster and smoother the wheels of all our affairs would turn.

The power of mass psychology is an almost unbelievable thing. The world has seen its destructive effect in the hands of a power and dictator. The U. S. A. might well demonstrate that psychology can be used as well to build, to recreate and to make the world a better place to live in.

THOROUGHBRED BREEDING—IMPORTANT INDUSTRY

A recently published book "Horse Racing and California Agriculture," among many interesting and educational disclosures as to the benefits derived by California from horse racing presents a complete map of all the thoroughbred breeding ranches in the state. There are over 320 ranches, as indicated on that map located in 51 out of 58 counties in California. That in itself is amazing, when we bear in mind that prior to the reestablishment of legalized horse racing in California in 1933 the thoroughbred breeding industry was almost completely on its way out.

Today, according to the official statement of California Breeders Association, the thoroughbred breeding investments in California represents no lesser sum than firty million dollars.

In part, dealing with thoroughbred breeding, it states:

"In the first place, itcreated new interest and activities in the purchase of additional lands, new building activity, purchases of all kinds of implements and machinery, from a wheel barrow to a truck, from nails to hay and straw, from window curtains in a house to radios and water pumps, from needles to automobile, from horses to tractors, and so on indefinitely.

"New and non-existing avenues of employment have absorbed thousands of workers who would otherwise have been idle, thus creating new purchasing power, affecting every line of business and professions—in every part of the state.

"There are numerous allied industries, too many to enumerate, which benefit as a consequence of horse racing. The money that would otherwise be idle is in circulation, developing new energies and creating new markets."

There is no dispute as to the authenticity of the above statement. It is worthy of every citizen's consideration.

MUSSOLINI FORGETS BIRTHDAY

Premier Mussolini arrives at the age of 58 but lets the occasion pass without fanfare. Italy's breast-beating dictator frowns on any intimation that he might be getting along in years, or that his physical prowess might be the least impaired. He likes to consider himself a great gladiator, though some of his less friendly biographers have accused him of being a physical coward at heart and one who cannot stomach carnage.

It is customary, too, on a birthday anniversary to have something about which to celebrate. Mussolini's part in this war has been a more or less negative one. He is a sorry figure. Only when the Germans are on hand to run things for him, is it possible for Mussolini to make any showing. His troops are being used in Russia but to no great extent and only under the direction of German generals.

When the world gets straightened out again and Italy, like other nations adds up the credits and the debits of the dictatorship period the Italian people will realize that it was a sorry day for them when Benito came into power and spread his black shirt influence about their bott-shaped country. What the Italians ought to do is put a kick into the boot and lift the duce into the air and land him plump into the Mediterranean. Maybe some day, soon, they will do that—and will the democracies rejoice!—Sacramento Union.

of its strength in the hard way.

An American ex-marine in whose judgment we have confidence says that if we wage war on Japan, it will not be against outposts in Indo China, along the Chinese coasts, or upon Shanghai, but we will proceed with aircraft carriers and a well organized fleet to give the Japanese islands themselves a taste of the warfare they have dished up to China for the past four years. "What's the sense," asks this marine, "of kicking a man in the shins, when you can lay him out with a haymaker on the jaw?" We wonder if this nation would approve of the bombing and firing of populous Japanese cities. The Germans hold that a swift, bloody war, in which women, children and old people perish, is the most merciful because the total losses of life and property are less than in a long drawn out struggle. From a scientific standpoint, the Germans are probably right, but could the majority of this nation ever see war in that light?

THE NUGGET

Her car and his collided head-on. Both got out and, with a fine show of courtesy, began to apologize profusely.

She—"It was my fault and I'm sorry."

He—"Not at all, madam. I was to blame."

She—"But I insist it was my fault. Iwas on your side of the road."

He—"That may be true, madam, but I'm responsible just the same. I saw you coming for several blocks and I had ample opportunity to dart down a side street.

FAMILY OF FOUR SUPPLIED EGGS BY FIFTEEN HENS

BERKELEY, Aug. 4. — A home poultry flock with an average of fifteen hens should supply enough eggs annually to meet the requirements of a family of four according to Harry M. Butterfield, specialist in the University of California Agricultural Extension Service.

The Extension Service has issued a free emergency food production circular, The Home Poultry Flock, now available from any county office of the service. It covers selection, feeding and management of the flock, equipment and control of pests and diseases.

Writing in this circular. Butterfield points out "To aid in maintaining health and yet keep down living expenses, a family of four should allow about five eggs a day or 35 a week. This will amount to 1,825 eggs per year. A home flock with an average of 15 hens should supply this number of eggs, and hens of high production would supply many more."

In addition, says Butterfield, the small flock might furnish a total of 200 pounds of dressed poultry meat each year. Cull hens, fryer, and the roasters would provide this meat.

Weekend Visitors—

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Roberts of Walnut Creek were weekend visitors with parents and friends here. When the couple returned to their home last night they were accompanied by Harry Roberts, who has regained his health following a recent operation. Harry will seek work in Walnut Creek.

Customer—"Remember the cheese you sold me yesterday?"

BEWARE
of "Brown Patch" Disease in Your LAWN

BROWN PATCH DISEASE—in this disease (which is often confused with Sod Webworm damage) the grass dies and turns brown in patches which may gradually enlarge until areas of bare soil from a few inches to several feet in diameter are formed. This is most conmon in young lawns. Moist weather, high soil moisture and shade favor the disease. The trouble is more likely to develop on heavily fertilized soil, especially if rich in nitrogen.

When Brown Patch appears, first treat a small area with "EXTRAX" to see if by any chance they are caused by Sod Webworm. If no worms are observed, treat entire lawn with GREENOL Liquid Fungicide at 1 to 800 dilution. Apply with a sprinkling can or water proportioner at rate of one to two gallons per square yard (3'x3'). Actual Brown Patch diseased areas should be re-treated 2 or 3 times at 3 day intervals.

U. C. SCHOONER JOINS U. S. NAVY

LA JOLLA, Aug. 4.—The University of California's navy, the 104 foot schooner E. W. Scripps, today enlists with Uncle Sam's Navy for the duration of the war.

Dr. Harold U. Sverdrup, director of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, has offered the services of the E. W. Scripps to officials of the new U. S. Naval Radio and Sound Laboratory at San Diego. The ship will remain under the direction of Dr. Sverdrup but will conduct research of a national defense nature.

The ship is a two masted auxiliary schooner with a cruising radius of 2500 miles. It formerly belonged to Lewis Stone, motion picture actor, but was purchased by Robert W. Scripps for $50,000 and presented to the university in 1937.

For the past four years the E. W. Scripps has plied the waters off southern California and in the Gulf of California in search of scientific knowledge concerning currents, weather and plant and animal life of the sea.

SCROLL RECORDS MEXICAN TRIBE OF CONQERORS

BERKELEY, Aug. 4.—The tale of a conquering people who over a period of 700 years wandered from Guatemala to the vicinity of Mexico City is being unfolded by a young anthropologist of the University of California.

The story, which supplies a missing link in Mexico's history before the coming of Cortez, is being interpreted by Dr John Barr Tompkins, research fellow in anthropology, from a foot long scroll on which is painted in brilliant colors the saga of the tribe's migrations.

Known as the Codex Fernandez Lela, which had been missing for nealy 50 years, the scroll was presented a year ago to the University of California by W. W. Crocker, San Francisco banker.

The story of the people is told in the ingenious picture and symbol writing characteristic of Ancient Mexico. Using this unique "alphabet" Dr. Tompkins is interpreting the scroll, determining dates, names of chiefs, places and other details in the history of the tribe.

For about 700 years the tribe swept through Mexico, apparently unconquered, until it was defeated and absorbed by a tribe in the Oaxaca highlands. Dr. Tompknis says that probably one of the reasons for the wanderings and conquests was to capture prisoners for human sacrifice to their gods. Many of the battle scenes are followed by pictures of the taking of prisoners and of human sacrifice.

Dr. Tompkins declares that the interpretation of the Code will have more than immediate value. Not only will it supply information on calendar systems, costuming, warfare and weapons, and ritual and religion of a little known group; it will also, Dr. Tompkins hopes, because it supplies many place names, towns, and settlements, long since forgotten, furnish clues to possible future archeological excavations.

Miss Sally Robinson Engaged To Be Wed

The engagement of Miss Sally Robinson, former well known woman of this city and niece of Miss Savory Ford, Elementary School teacher, to Robert B. Fulton has become known.

Miss Robinson, who is at present visiting here with her mother, Mrs. Harry Robinson of Lovelock, Nev., attended school here for a time.

Fulton's father at one time was superintendent of the Idaho-Maryland Mine.

Little Dorothy was trying to dress herself.

"Mother," she said after a long period of effort, "I guess you'll have to button my dress. The buttons are behind and I'm in front."

BETTER LIGHT for BETTER SIGHT
AT HOME!

In most cases of eye-strain or early need for glasses, the lighting at home by which the student works at night has been the chief provoking factor.

By all means look to your home lighting under which your children study. If you answer "yes" to these questions, your home lighting is faulty: Are frowns and scowls apparent? Are any bare lamp bulbs glaring out from beneath fixture bowl or lamp shade? Is the lamp on the study table short and squatty so that it stands in a little pool of light? The light upon the study table should be diffused generously over the entire working space. There should be a well-selected ceiling fixture to provide lighting over the whole room.

Good lighting at home is a MOST important item in your child's back-to-school equipment. It is one of the least expensive items, too. When children have Better Light for Better Study, better grades invariably follow.

NEW DEAN FOR PLACER JR. COL.

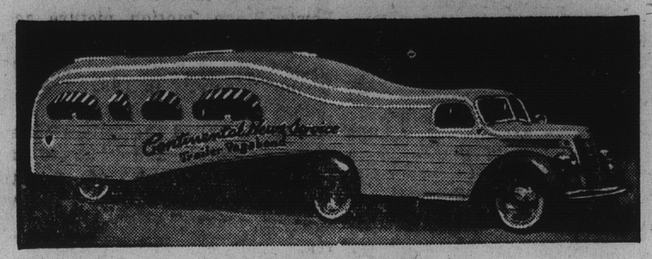
Lenard W. Sledge, associate dean of Placer Junior College, will arrive in Auburn to take up the duties of his new office on Monday, August 11. Sledge has been doing graduate work at Clarement Colleges during the summer, having been registered in a comprehensive survey course in the junior college field.

The new associate dean was formerly an instructor in the Taft Junior College where he served also as director of the adult school and community forum. From 1935 through 1938, Sledge was deputy state superintendent of public instruction for the state of Nevada. From 1930 until he became deputy superintendent he taught in the Las Vegas high school.

Sledge has specialized in the fields of literature, social science, and oral expression. He has had an active interest in dramatics, having directed the Las Vegas community theatre. Since 1937, Sledge has been a member of the lecture bureau of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce and a member of the public forum and speakers bureau of the federal forum project sponsored by the California State Department of Education.

Sledge was a four year honor student at the University of Nevada, the recipient of three scholarships at that university awarded for excellence in academic studies.

"TRAILER VAGABOND"



By WARREN BAYLEY

This feature appears through the courtesy of O. K. Tire Weld Co. G. R. (Red) Jarrard, Hills Flat, Grass Valley, California.

Cardston, Alberta, Canada.

There is less war talk up here than back in the U. S A. Folks are very much aware that their country is closely linked with England in the struggle and are out to do their jobs enthusiastically and well, but the subject doesn't dominate as many conversations as it does down in the states. An attitude of quiet determination, without fuss and bluster, prevails.

It's a different war for Canada this time. In the last one she had to send troops across to fight. Nothing like that is in the book of rules for her now. She is carrying out even more urgent and valuable duties—training other members of the Empire to fly and producing all the fighting and eating material she can.

Canadians talk and act so much like we do that I'm convinced we are brothers under the skin. And they surely make an American tourist feel that way. This fact undoubtedly had something to do with last year's visits of more than two days' duration from more than 14,000,000 Americans—over a tenth of our population.

Up until a year and a half ago, Canadian tourists eagerly returned the compliment, but now they are pretty much bottled up at home. Every Canadian dollar is needed for the big job at hand—the war—and at no time is a person allowed to take more than twenty five dollars out of the country. This law curtails travel outside of Canada and about the only people who can dash back and forth across the American border are the Australian flying students from a little north of here, who seem to enjoy zooming out over our Glacier National Park for the sights. But the U. S. isn't really losing by this very necessary Canadian law. Millions of dollars are pouring over our border for war materials — money that used to be brought by tourists.

It is both easy and a pleasure for an American citizen to enter this country. No fee is charged and a driver's license will suffice for a pass port. He is wise to be careful about changing too much of his money into Canadian dollars because he is allowed to swap only twenty five of them back in for American currency when he leaves The exchange is set by law at one American dollar for a dollar and ten cents Canadian.

The prosperity that has hit Alberta is quite apparent in this little agricultural town of less than 2,000 just across the border from Montana. It is rejoicing over the fact that the prices of wheat and beef have soared since the war began. The selling price of a fine, white-faced steer is around ninety dollars now, where it was only forty less than two years ago. So, quite naturally, most of what little war talk there is up here is connected with the country's prosperity. But there is something else very noticeable in these discussions —the unquestioned belief that Canada is definitely on the winning side.

JAMES STEWART COMING THURS. IN 'POT O' GOLD'

There is music, merriment, fun, laughter and romance in James Roosevelt's first Hollywood production, "Pot O' Gold," which stars James Stewart and Paulette Goddard and opens at the Nevada Theatre on Thursday through United Artists release. The picture was directed by George Marshall and its story hinges on the whims of an eccentric millionaires who sells vitamized food his impecunious nephew and an equally impecunious dance band which practices its tunes atop a boading house roof.

Charles Winninger portrays the uncle, Jimmy is the nephew, Paulette Goddard is the comedy boarding house lass and Horace Heidt and his band of radio luminaries provide the gay and light hearted tunes.

Providing Jimmy Stewart with his make believe home was simple. Jimmy is the impractical proprietor of a small town music shop who lives in the rear room of his store, a barely furnished room with a cot, a gas-plate and a sink hung on brackets. To give Miss Goddard a home it was necessary to build an entire tenement street, three blocks long. As the daughter of a boarding house keeper, Paulette gets mixed up with the chief tenants the impoverished members of Horace Heidt's band.

Charles Winninger's home was luxuriously furnished by the studio with a library, drawing room, two bedrooms, a furnace room, card room and pantry. A spacious colonial structure was photographed to represent the exterior and to match the elaborate interiors.

ROOSEVELT ELK GIVEN DAY AND NIGHT GUARD

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Kenneth Fulton, state director of natural resources, said today that "taking care of Roosevelt elk" in Prairie creek state park has become a full time job for one man.

Many travelers report the elk are as great an attraction as the redwoods in that area, Fulton said. There are approximately 200 elks in the park area and during the tourist season the biggest problem is to keep visitors from bothering elk in the Elk Prairie, a mile long area bisected by the highway.

Between 50 and 60 head of elk feed in the prairie and tourists stop from daylight to dark to snap their pictures, Fulton said.

Busses also stop frequently to let passengers see the elk and the trees of mystery in the campground.

Roads and trails in the park are patrolled day and night to prevent hunters and "spotlighters" from killing the elk. Fulton said it was a difficult problem to prevent visitors from throwing missils at the elk to make them get up or jump the fence for pictures. He warned that the animals might attack if frightened or annoyed.

Newlywed Husband—"Nothing but bread and butter for dinner tonight?"

Bride—"Well, dear, the chops caught fire and fell into the dessert and I had to use the soup to put out the blaze."
